As Jan. 20 nears, Trump must make plans on where he will move to from the White House. Since "NY hates him" Trump Tower is out of the question. That makes MaraLago the logical new full-time residence. But before going to MaraLago, Trump must be sure that Gov. DeSantis will not extradite him to NYS once Cyrus Vance indicts Trump for defrauding Deutsche Bank. Reg 2 RA, Pete Lopez (a lawyer?), who Trump is advised is an expert on NYS law is consulted. Pete, a flood prevention expert, warns him that MaraLago is vulnerable to flooding due to climate change (or in the alternative a cruel Chinese hoax). Pete explains that Trump must seek higher ground which simply does not exist in Fla. Trump then turns to Rudy to help him. Rudy has just the solution, Kazhikstan with elevations below sea level (bad) and in excess of 20,000 feet (good). Kazhikstan has the key advantage of not having an extradition treaty with the U.S. Rudy also has an in--Borat.

Now Carl, I know this is an absolutely crazy rant but that makes it absolutely perfect for the times, especially if the time you are looking at in January is the 20th or later. With the untimely passing of Warren Lewellen and Coles Phinizy, I have likely inherited the mantle of the least technically savvy of ORC alumni. I have used Zoom on the receiving end with spotty success in getting the audio or visual working. Similarly with Google chats. So, my participation will require a lot of coaching and lead time. I also have been out of the loop so long, topicality may be a problem. But that having been said, I am of course willing to help in any way I can.

Finally, you have left out the best song: Send Lawyers, Guns and Money by Warren Zevon. This ditty can be readily adapted for any scenario you come up with. It could work for a Trump, Rudy, Don Jr. or even an RA Pete who I have no idea who he is.

Anyway, good luck, happy holidays. Think January 20 and beyond. Remember Trump's keen sense of humor at the White House Correspondence Dinner may have been the prime motivating factor in the ensuing sad history.

Lots to work with. Keep the ideas coming.

There's no holiday party in the flesh and no holiday party date set, so it may be that if we cobble something together it could be in January. Maybe Elana will have more time then and the new administration will be in place and we might have greater freedom in what we can perform. So, time to brainstorm.

Carl:

One more possible song for use: remember Bye, Bye Birdie?

Hi all, unfortunately I must bow out this year. I'm in the middle of a book rebrand, and between that and all my other work, I am swamped.

I hope everyone is well and staying safe!

If you're talking about a zoom, ~~facetime~~,* or skype-type call, I can certainly lend what remains of my voice to the party for whatever song(s) you come up with. Thanks!

Let's make a movie! Or skits, SNL-like. Or distort a show or song. Something we can share with the Region in lieu of this year's Holiday Party.

We could update/reprise used Transition songs, and Good-bye Farewell Leaving songs/shows/scenes come to mind (Ding Dong the Witch is Dead; Dylan's positively 4th street could bring out the long-knives; might be a good time for the Boss to make a come-back; Leaving on the PATH train; hit the road jack; candle in the wind; on the road again; so long-farewell; Na Na Hey Hey Kiss Him Goodbye (have we never used this one?!; hello, good-bye; these boots was made for walking.)

And this: A change would do you good. I'm definitely doing this. https://youtu.be/lkjmz_SlGhg Or we could all do it and patch it together. i.e., everyone telling Pete it's time to move along.

Ex. 5 Deleted from Process (2) are you around and willing to patch together a bunch of videos shot on iPhones?

Walter, any news on Pete's departure date/future plans? Speculation on replacements?

Other ideas? Brainstorming...
